The Elfenworks Foundation Hosts 10th Anniversary Screening of A Concert for Hope in Kahului, Maui

Kahului, Maui, Hawaii (February 20, 2017) - The Elfenworks Foundation today announced the screening of A Concert for Hope in honor of its ten-year anniversary at Maui Mall Megaplex, Auditorium 10, starting at 2:30 pm, followed by the 3:00 pm showing of the major motion film Hidden Figures from 20th Century Fox. A Concert for Hope celebrates the opening of the Stanford Center on Poverty and Inequality, a joint effort between the Elfenworks Foundation and Stanford University. The film was screened in 2009 at Sunset on the Beach in Oahu. A Concert for Hope, filmed at Stanford's Memorial Church in 2007, commemorates the first annual In Harmony with Hope Awards presentation to a group of extraordinary visionaries, including former first lady Rosalynn Carter and co-founder of Partners in Health Dr. Paul Farmer.

"Be the aloha you want to see in the world; so they say, right?" says Ken Tam, Executive Director of the Elfenworks Foundation. "We are all about finding that seed of hope and sharing it with others so it grows into something real." The Elfenworks Foundation works to foster hope and encourages people to "never underestimate your ripple" when starting something new. "This is exactly the purpose behind the screening: to ignite radical hope," says Dr. Lauren Speeth, an esteemed social entrepreneur and international public speaker. As the founder and CEO of the Elfenworks Foundation, she will be introducing A Concert for Hope at the Maui screening.

Elfenworks is honored to screen the 10th anniversary showing of A Concert for Hope in conjunction with the award-winning, Oscar-nominated film Hidden Figures, which highlights the incredible tale of a visionary trio of "hidden" NASA mathematicians.

Tickets to the event are free and will be available at <https://hiddenhope.eventbrite.com>

Seating is limited, so make sure you get your tickets early.
